WEST-END DOCTOR

OUR LOCAL THEATRES. HALLS AND PALACES.

From all sides comes news of the preparations for the forthcoming season. However such matters may be neglected in the West-end, the proprietors of our local theatres still find a great demand for the good old-fashioned pantomime. "Robbins Crinolines and the Rustins," "The Robinsons and the Rustins," are now being turned into topical sketches by well-known variety artists who soon be seen on the suburban boards. — It was a cruel and wicked thing to set on foot the rumour — at the foundations of the handsome Metropole — that the manager and a several local artists, by an indiscreet and a directed name of the person who originated the canard Mr. Mulholland is ready to pay such a sum. In a re-assuring speech to his audience the other night Mr. Mulholland gave the rumour the lie direct. Mulholland is a member of the County Council, the Lord Chamberlain's Office, and the district surveyor on the point. "This theatre," he added "will remain upstanding and with open doors as long as it rests upon the firm foundation of your support and goodwill. Fustian, Englishwoman," Grand, "The Gaiety," Britannia, "The Crucial Cry," Standard, "The School Girl" (Minnie Palmer), Pavilion, "Streets of London," Royal (Stratford), "The Call," Borough Theatre (Stratford), "Sign of the Cross," West London, "Under the Pear Tree," Brighton, "Gudgeons" and "The Spell-bound Garden," Kilburn, "Les Cloches de Corneville," Shakespearian

The main fun and frolic of the show, however, was the M-F. Wright, a black bear from the Pacific Northwest region. The Dundee bear, as it is said, is specially bred to fight bear and bull, and in Spain stallions of these, which will be the keys. Two of the black bears, which have fought the bear and

A word of praise is due also to J. M. Capel for his services as conductor. He evidently knows the score by heart. The piece will be given throughout the week.

CONCERTS OF THE WEEK.

Of the many concerts that have taken place during the past week, it is interesting to recall the concert given at the Royal Choral Society. This body of amateur singers, called into existence by Mr. K. Newman, has now achieved so fair a reputation that any work they undertake is assured in advance of all interest and careful criticism. Their promise was amply justified in "Saint Saeus" ("Samson and Delilah," made at the commencement of the season, has now been faithfully kept, and music lovers, who looked forward to hearing the French master's opera given under the best possible conditions, were by no means disappointed. We could have wished to see a larger audience, for, although there was a good attendance at Queen's Hall, it was not such as the work since "Samson and Delilah." was given in concert form, and from time to time the performance of isolated numbers has engendered a desire to again hear the work in its entirety. The Queen's Hall choir have now grown into a fine body, and have created within them the longing to witness a stage performance of this splendid opera, full as it is of the finest dramatic possibilities, and furnished with an opportunity for a scenic display, which would enhance to a wonderful extent the splendour and beauty of the music, the gorgeous, and at times bizarre orchestration of Saint Saeus. The instrumentalists, under Mr. Kandegger, brought out in splendid fashion the rich and varied colouring which the composer has woven into the choir, alike in the severe numbers allotted to the Hebrews and the more joyous music written for the Philistines, again proved themselves to be in

There are popular artists at present doing duty. Mr. E. Sparrow, and amongst the clever Kate Janney—Mlle. Minnie George is proving a great success at the Palace, in connection with which Mr. Charles Morton forwards a copy of his Christmas programme, due on day, 21st inst.—a programme, it may be added, full of clever people and things.

METROPOLITAN.

An interesting how inevitable it is that those responsible for variety entertainments should "ring the changes." To speak, on the comparatively recent programmes at the Metropolitan Theatre, we who stand first in public estimation as patrons of Mr. Henri Gros' Lancers always noticeable for their fresh and varied character. The "stars" here are never absent from the Metropolitan bill, and Marie Lloyd may for the moment be counted the bright particular star. Edgewood, that he is a fully clever comedienne has long been cognized, and Mr. Gros' patrons are appreciating to the full her imitability of "They can't stop me going thinking," a very neat bit of business, and other ditties. It is worth noting that the notice man with which this notice deputy for Dutch Daily appeared person of Fred Russell, and alto-

CHARGED WITH PERFORMING AN ILLEGAL OPERATION.

MISS FLETCHER DIED shortly afterwards. When charged the station with using a certain instrument he said, "I certainly did not use the kind," and Kennedy refused to prosecute for a week. He pointed out that the alleged offence was committed outside the jurisdiction of Greenwich Court, and asked Fox and Russell to represent the Treasury, with a view to a transfer of the case to Westminster. The case was dropped, and a dressmaker.

INQUEST AND VERDICT.—The death of Miss Fletcher, occurred in the parish of St. Clement, Wood. Miss Fletcher lived at 10, St. George's Forest Hill, where she died early last Sunday.—Dr. Smith, Roland-gardens, 8, Kensington, was charged, as stated above, at which, with having performed a legal operation.—Mr. Eusebio appeared on behalf of Dr. Smith, the police were represented by Fox and Russell and Fox.—The jury, quite a pete, was also present in the company of 3 waiters and Holloway. All the witnesses, including Det-insp. Fox, were ordered out of court during the quity.—The first witness called was the mother of deceased, Mrs. Fletcher, of Belle Alliance-see gate, an aged woman, who testified that she last saw her daughter alive on Nov. 23 at Stanston where she had been summoned by telegram. Deceased was unmarried, and carried on business as a maker in conjunction with her sister, Lily, her senior by 15 years. She was married and had two children, nothing wrong until Nov. 1 daughter stayed with her for during September, and was in good health. The telegram of her death was received by her father, read, "Come, mother, Lily is dead." The mother and daughter witnesses arrived at the mortuary at 11 o'clock, and the daughter stated she was ill to make at Stanston. She died at 12.20 on the morning. In answer to Mr. witness said she made no money and deceased.

I put a sheet in my mouth from screaming. It pained me. After the operation I came to, and I will, you, I do not know, I cannot tell you what the doctor was or where he lived. He was a fair man with a heavy moustache, about my height.

When he performed that put a towel round my mouth, I was not a respectable house. He was a fair man.

At 10 or 11 o'clock on Sunday night deceased was taken to the station for the purpose of Dr. Smith, in which he was identified and he was performed it.
